

Providence ElderPlace surrounds each participant with medical care, long-term care, and social services, so they have the support needed to live as healthy and independently as possible.

